

Let's start with the basics...

What is a classroom transformation?

A classroom transformation changes your room into a certain setting or theme to engage students in their own learning with rigorous content.

Donut Shop Day

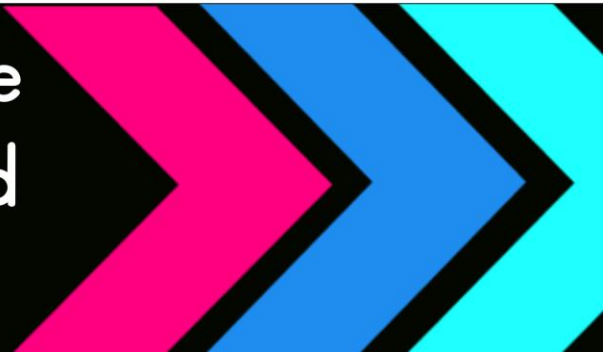

Rock Star Day

Camping Day

You don't have to spend hours of your time setting up a room transformation or spend lots of money to make it SO MUCH FUN!

STEP 2:

Let students move around the room and complete each station. They read a passage and then an activity to go with it. They can be completed in any order. All stations include a variety of reading comprehension skills. You can choose just a few for students to complete or use all 10. This is up to the teacher and the amount of time you'd like to fill.

Optional Recording Sheet

When a student finishes a center, you sign that spot on their recording sheet to keep track of what they've completed.

Freedom to choose.

Students can work in partners, rotations, groups, or independently. Your choice!

FUN FACTS ABOUT TURKEYS

Turkeys have many unique features. They can have anywhere from 5,000-6,000 feathers on their body. There is also a patch of clear skin on a turkey's throat that changes color based on how the male turkey feels. If he's excited, his head turns blue. If he's angry or ready to fight, it turns red. Male turkeys weigh between 16-22 pounds while females weigh 8-12 pounds. Males have a fleshy growth over their beaks called a snood. Females choose their mates based on the length of it.

Turkeys are also capable of doing amazing things. They can run up to 25 miles per hour and fly up to 55 miles per hour. Turkeys are able to form bonds and their friends. They communicate in their own language through gobbling, clucking, and purring. Some turkeys show affection to humans, and they enjoy being petted.

Turkeys have impressive survival skills too like swallowing acorns whole and trees at night despite their large size. Turkeys have great color vision as well.

Here are more facts about the history of turkeys. Turkey were first brought to North America by Native Americans 2,000 years ago. In the 1900s, overhunting almost led to the extinction of wild turkeys. Fortunately, conservation efforts have raised the population to over 7 million. Before European settlement, wild turkeys were found in 15 states from Canada to Mexico. Their habitat included forests, grasslands, and wetlands.

THE TURKEYS MAKE A PLAN

A group of turkeys had lived on their farm for years in peace. That calm, however, would vanish as Thanksgiving got closer.

"I know they're going to eat us!" Jill exclaimed in fear. "We're going to be dinner!"

Griffin rolled his eyes. "You're always paranoid. We'll be fine. You worry too much."

Penelope chirped cheerfully, "Totally fine! They haven't eaten us before, have they?"

"It was a close call last year," Nelson reminded them. "Remember when the farmers had their relatives over for Thanksgiving? Jill's fear isn't completely unfounded."

THE STUFFED OWL

"Mom, why did Jenny get a new stuffed animal for Thanksgiving, and I didn't?" Tyra complained. "She was showing everyone this cute stuffed owl at school yesterday."

Her mother looked up from the stove, where she was preparing Thanksgiving dinner. "Jenny's family must give each other gifts for the holiday. We don't do that but you'll get gifts next month for Christmas. Now, go to your room and play until it's dinner time."

Tyra stomped upstairs and flopped on her bed. It didn't seem fair. Tyra wasn't sure how long she lay there. Her mother swung the door open. "Yeah, Mom?" Tyra asked.

"Jenny's at the door," her mom replied. "Go outside and play for a bit."

Tyra saw Jenny with the owl when she left. "You're so lucky," she said admiringly.

Jenny glanced down. "It's okay. But I'd rather have my mom home instead."

Tyra tilted her head, confused. "Where's your mom?"

"She works the night shift as a nurse. She'll miss dinner, so she got me this owl."

"Oh," Tyra said, stunned. "I thought you had the perfect life. I was kind of jealous."

Her mother looked up from the stove, where she was preparing Thanksgiving dinner. "Jenny's family must give each other gifts on Thanksgiving. We don't do that in our family."

"Why not?" Tyra pressed.

"Because Christmas is only a month away. You'll get gifts then. Now, go to your room and play until dinner."

Frustrated, Tyra stomped upstairs, went into her room, and flopped onto her bed. It didn't seem fair. Why did Jenny get everything and she didn't? Tyra wasn't sure how long she lay there before she heard footsteps coming toward her room. The door swung open, and her mother appeared in the doorway.

"What is it, Mom?" Tyra asked.

"Jenny's at the door," her mom replied, apron in hand. "Go outside and play for a bit. I've got a lot of cooking left to do before we can sit down for our meal."

Tyra hurried outside and saw Jenny holding the new stuffed owl. She admired it. "You're the luckiest kid in the world!"

Jenny glanced at her owl. "It's okay, I guess. But I'd rather have my mom home for dinner instead of this."

Tyra tilted her head, confused. "Where's your mom?"

"She works the night shift as a nurse at the hospital. She'll miss dinner, so she got me this owl to keep me company."

"Oh," Tyra said, a little stunned. "I thought you had the perfect life. I was kind of jealous that you got the owl."

Jenny laughed lightly. "A stuffed animal is nothing compared to having dinner with your family. My mom will be gone all evening. You're the lucky one."

"I guess maybe you're right," Tyra admitted. She realized she might need to change her perspective.

PROS & CONS OF BLACK FRIDAY

Black Friday is the day after Thanksgiving. It is one of the best days to shop because of all the great deals. While Black Friday has many advantages, there are also some downsides to consider. Let's explore both the pros and cons of Black Friday shopping.

People love Black Friday due to the lower prices. Stores offer discounts, making it easier to save money on electronics, clothes, and gifts. Black Friday also allows you to start holiday shopping early. With the good deals, you can buy presents and stick to your budget. Black Friday can be fun for family or friends to experience together. You can make memories and enjoy the excitement. Or, you can shop online to avoid the crowds.

Though Black Friday can be great, there are some challenges. If you choose to shop in person, you might end up waiting in long lines for sold out items. Dealing with large crowds can also be stressful. Sometimes, people can be rude or pushy as everyone tries to get deals. Another downside is Black Friday sales often start on Thanksgiving night. If you want a good spot in line, you'll need to leave dinner early to get to the store. Black

THE GIANT CORN

"Look at all these people!" Jimmy said as he gazed at the crowd. "This is crazy!" Lucy, Liam, and Jamal agreed. The four had been dropped off at the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade and were awe-struck by the floats and performers rolling by. "Check out those massive balloon floats!" Lucy pointed toward the street. A gigantic corn-shaped balloon floated gracefully past them over their heads.

"I've never seen corn that big!" Jamal remarked. "I'm going to hit the restroom."

"Are you sure you won't get lost in all these people?" Liam asked, a little concerned. He waved off the worry. "I'll be fine. I'll catch up in a minute." He moved through the crowd slowly until he found the restroom. Once finished, Jamal stepped out and paused. It all looked different; he realized he was lost. The familiar sights of moments ago were nowhere to be seen. He couldn't find the giant corn balloon where his friends had stood.

"Jimmy? Lucy? Liam?" Jamal called. A wave of panic washed over him. Disoriented and feeling helpless, he sat down. The noise of the parade faded as tears welled in his eyes. Then, he felt a hand on his shoulder. "Jamal? There you are!" It was Jimmy, with Lucy and Liam close behind. "We've been searching everywhere for you. Are you okay?"

Jamal nodded. "Yeah. I'm sorry for missing up the parade for you guys."

Lucy smiled warmly. "You didn't mess anything up. There's still so much left to see!"

"We're just glad you're safe," Liam added, relieved. Jamal was relieved too!

DINNERS

Their popularity comes from how they are prepared. People enjoy a meal while watching TV. Did you know that there are so many leftover turkeys? The company of turkey meat to sell after Thanksgiving. The solution to solve this. Instead of trashing the turkeys, they developed a new product. They made frozen meals consisting of turkey, peas, and cornbread. This became popular at that time. The company marketed the meal as a way to eat it while watching TV. This branding caught on, and the TV dinners were a hit. In just the first year, over 25 million TV dinners were sold. The company added more to their menu. They offered breakfast, desserts, and more. This made TV dinners even more popular.

The TV dinner showed how American lifestyles changed. Busy people needed quick, easy meals after work when they had little time for holiday traditions, with families watching football and the Day Parade. Some chose to enjoy their holiday meals in front of the dining table. Thus, today, many companies make TV dinners. And with so many options, it's clear that TV dinners are here to stay.

THE STUFFED OWL

Jenny got a new stuffed animal for Thanksgiving, and I didn't?" Tyra complained. "She was given this cute stuffed owl at school yesterday."
 "Your mother looked up from the stove, where she was preparing Thanksgiving dinner. "Jenny's family must give each other gifts on Thanksgiving. We don't do that in our family."
 "Why not?" Tyra pressed.
 "Because Christmas is only a month away. You'll get gifts then. Now, go to your room."
 Frustrated, Tyra stomped upstairs, went into her room, and flopped onto her bed. It was late in the evening. Jenny wasn't sure how long she lay there before she heard her room. The door swung open, and her mother appeared in the doorway.
 "What is it, Mom?" Tyra asked.
 "Jenny's at the door," her mom replied, apron in hand. "Go outside and play for a bit. I'll be left to do before we can sit down for our meal."
 Tyra hurried outside and saw Jenny holding the new stuffed owl. She admired it. "You're the luckiest kid in the world!"
 Jenny glanced at her owl. "It's okay, I guess. But I'd rather have my mom home for Thanksgiving. Tyra tilted her head, confused. "Where's your mom?"
 "She works the night shift as a nurse at the hospital. She'll miss dinner, so she got me company."
 "Oh," Tyra said, a little stumped. "I thought you had the perfect life. I was kind of jealous of you."
 Jenny laughed lightly. "A stuffed animal is nothing compared to having dinner with your family every evening. You're the lucky one."
 "I guess maybe you're right," Tyra admitted. She realized she might need to change her perspective.

1. What does Tyra learn by the end of the story?

A. She is luckier than she first thought because she has her family.	B. She will get the owl eventually, so she shouldn't be upset.	C. Jenny's life is perfect even though her mom works long hours.
--	--	--

2. Which best describes the theme of the story?

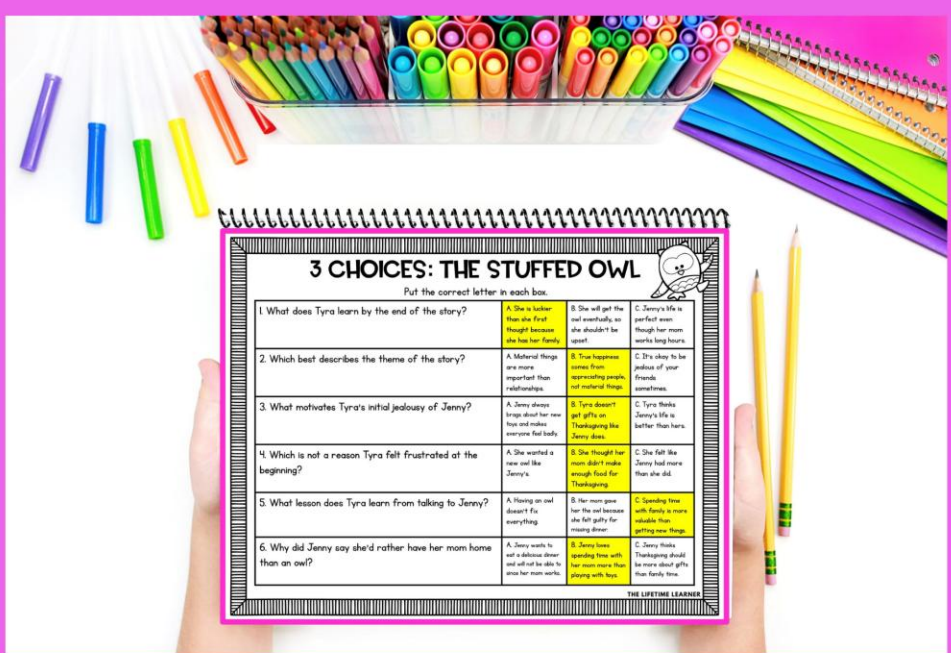

A. Material things are more important than relationships.	B. True happiness comes from appreciating people, not material things.	C. It's okay to be jealous of your friends sometimes.
---	--	---

3. What motivates Tyra's initial jealousy of Jenny?

A. Jenny always brags about her new toys and makes everyone feel badly.	B. Tyra doesn't get gifts on Thanksgiving like Jenny does.	C. Tyra thinks Jenny's life is better than hers.

TURKEYS WHO EXERCISE

Tyra the turkey had spent his life on the farm with other turkeys. He loved the fields and the freedom to explore as far as he wanted. Even his shed was cozy, offering a safe place to rest each night. Feathers took pleasure in sleeping by the pond. He also hunted for bugs, pecked at the scarecrow, and was fed by the farmer every morning.

Feather loved watching the seasons change. Currently, the leaves were turning. As he pecked at the scarecrow one morning, he chatted with another turkey. "I looked quite plump yesterday. Isn't that odd?"
 "How impolite of him!" Feathers said. "He really should watch his manners. The following day, another turkey told Feathers, "The farmer weighs me and pats me on the head. Then he told me to keep eating."
 "Why would he say such a thing?" Feathers asked. "Do you think we should exercise?"
 The turkey shrugged and said it couldn't hurt.

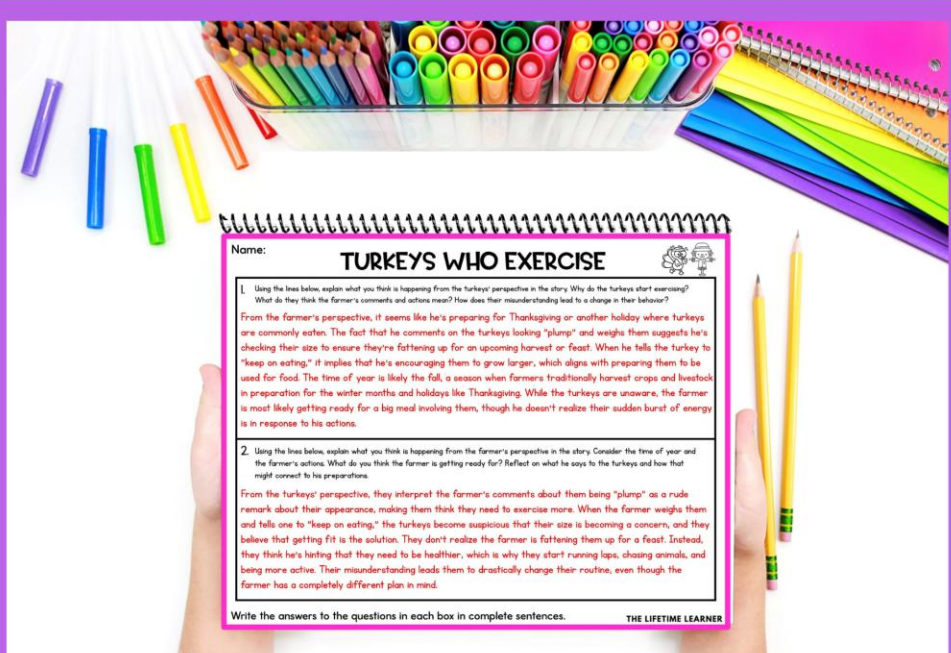

From that day on, the turkeys changed. They ran laps around the pond, chased the scarecrow in the field. Exhausted by their new routine, they slept very peacefully. The farmer saw this strange change from his porch. Rocking back and forth, he spoke to his wife, "Ever seen such energetic turkeys before?"
 "Not once," she replied. "What do you think has them so worked up?"
 "Beats me," the farmer said, shaking his head in confusion.

1. Using the lines below, explain what you think is happening from the turkey's perspective in the story. Why do the turkeys start exercising? What do they think the farmer's comments and actions mean? How does their misunderstanding lead to a change in their behavior?

From the farmer's perspective, it seems like he's preparing for Thanksgiving or another holiday where turkeys are commonly eaten. The fact that he comments on the turkeys looking "plump" and weighs them suggests he's checking their size to ensure they're fattening up for an upcoming harvest or feast.

THE BIG PARADE

The Thanksgiving Day Parade is one of the most famous Thanksgiving celebrations. It is broadcast on TV every year. It first began in 1924 and featured three balloon floats.

Along with live zoo animals from the Central Zoo, the parade included 16 character balloons, 11 marching bands, and 26 floats.

However, the live animals were not liked by the parade organizers because they frightened the children. The parade organizers decided to replace the live zoo animals with cartoon character balloons.

In 1934, celebrities like Eddie Cantor began joining the parade. The parade expanded over time to include not just animals and even magical creatures like fairies.

Macy's continues to try to outdo itself each year with larger balloons and more floats. Next time you go to Macy's, look for the parade float.

PUMPKIN PIE

That was a really good Thanksgiving meal!

"You're done already? You really gobbled that food up. If you're done already, you're done already!" He finished in a joking tone.

"I'll make room for dessert!" William glanced into the kitchen, eyeing the pumpkin pie ready yet? It smells like heaven on a plate in here!"

Actually, William, I'm going to give that pie to Mrs. Hampshire. She just had surgery.

"But..."

"You just enjoyed a great meal that your mother worked hard to make. That's why."

"Fine."

"I'll give it to you with me to deliver the pie?" his mother suggested.

William said nothing.

He agreed. Once Jake and his mother finished eating, they grabbed the pie.

Mrs. Hampshire answered the door. "Oh my, is that a pumpkin pie?" she said, her eyes on the pie.

"Yes, it is."

"William's mother replied.

"You're so much!" William hadn't wanted to give the pie away at first, but when he saw Mrs. Hampshire realized he was being selfish. The whole thing was a blessing in disguise.

"Thank you for being so thoughtful," Jake teased. "What changed?"

"I guess. It's about being thankful and giving, not just keeping things for yourself. I guess."

FUN FACTS ABOUT TURKEYS

Turkeys have many unique features. They can have anywhere from 5,000-6,000 feathers on their body. There is also a patch of clear skin on a turkey's throat that changes color based on how the male turkey feels. If he's excited, his head turns blue. If he's angry or ready to fight, it turns red. Male turkeys weigh between 16-22 pounds while females weigh 8-12 pounds. Males have a fleshy growth over their beaks called a snood. Females choose their mates based on the length of it.

Turkeys are also capable of doing amazing things. They can run up to 25 miles per hour and fly up to 55 miles per hour. Turkeys are able to form bonds and remember their friends. They communicate in their own language through gobbling, clucking, and purring. Some turkeys show affection to humans, and they enjoy being petted. Wild turkeys have impressive survival skills too like swallowing acorns whole and roosting in trees at night despite their large size. Turkeys have great color vision as well.

Here are more facts about the history of turkeys. Turkey were first domesticated by Native Americans 2,000 years ago. In the 1900s, overhunting almost led to extinction with only 30,000 birds left. Fortunately, conservation efforts have raised the population to over 7 million. Before European settlement, wild turkeys were found in North America, from Canada to Mexico. Their habitat included forests, grasslands, and wetlands.
